COVID-19 continues to pose a risk to the facility due to the close quarters of the residence and the security protocols that must be maintained.

Given the rapid rise of the COVID-19 virus, and taking into consideration the limitations of the Larimer County work release facility and the staff, and given the difficulty to accomplish proper social distancing, and the isolation and medical care of symptomatic individuals in this facility, there is a need to balance public safety and the public health of our community.

Therefore, modifying the work release program will return low-risk offenders to their residences while allowing more serious offenders to remain in county facilities. These low-risk offenders will continue to be monitored in the community.
